- local cuisine (n) – food traditional to a place
- backpacking (n) – travelling with minimal luggage
- explore (v) – to travel through a place to learn about it
- adventurous (adj) – willing to try new experiences
- tourist attraction (n) – a popular place for visitors
- cultural experience (n) – activities that show a country's traditions
- journey (n) – travelling from one place to another
- relax (v) – to rest and enjoy yourself
- landscape (n) – natural scenery
- travel abroad (v) – to go to another country
- sightseeing tour (n) – a guided visit to famous places
- travel companion (n) – someone you travel with
- breathtaking (adj) – extremely beautiful

Sample Answers:

1. Do you like holidays? Why?

- Yes, I absolutely love holidays because they give me time to relax and explore new places. It's a perfect break from my busy schedule.
- I don't always enjoy holidays because I find travelling tiring and sometimes too expensive. I prefer staying at home to rest.

2. Where did you go for your last holiday?

- I went to Da Nang with my friends last summer. The beaches were beautiful, and we enjoyed fresh seafood and local culture.
- I didn't go anywhere recently because I was too busy with work. I just spent my holiday at home watching movies.

3. Which public holiday do you like best?

- My favorite public holiday is Tet, the Vietnamese New Year. It's a time for family gatherings, good food, and traditional customs.
- I don't really have a favorite public holiday because most of them feel the same—crowded and noisy.

4. Do you prefer a busy holiday or a relaxing one?

I prefer a relaxing holiday where I can enjoy nature and recharge my energy. For example, spending time on the beach or in the countryside.

Busy holidays aren't for me. I don't like rushing from one tourist spot to another—it feels more stressful than refreshing.

5. What do you usually do on holidays?

I usually travel with friends, take photos, and try local food. It's a fun way to experience different cultures and lifestyles.

Sometimes I don't go anywhere. I just stay home, catch up on sleep, and watch TV shows to unwind.

Technology / Electronic Devices

Vocabulary:

- gadget (n) – a small electronic device
- smartphone (n) – a mobile phone with advanced features
- tablet (n) – a portable touchscreen computer
- laptop (n) – a portable computer
- device (n) – a piece of electronic equipment
- charger (n) – equipment used to charge batteries
- headphones (n) – worn over ears to listen privately
- screen (n) – the display part of a device
- battery life (n) – how long a device can work before recharging
- software (n) – computer programs
- hardware (n) – physical parts of a computer
- upgrade (v/n) – improve to a newer version
- app (n) – application software for phones or computers
- connect (v) – to link devices or people online
- digital (adj) – involving computers or technology
- innovative (adj) – new and creative
- portable (adj) – easy to carry
- efficient (adj) – working well and quickly
- user-friendly (adj) – easy to use
- addicted (adj) – unable to stop using something

Sample Answers:

1. What electronic devices have you bought recently?

I recently bought a new laptop for studying. It's lightweight and perfect for online classes and assignments.

I haven't bought any devices lately because my current ones still work fine. I prefer not to waste money on upgrades.

2. Is technology important in your life?

- Definitely. Technology helps me study, communicate, and stay informed. I can't imagine my daily routine without my phone and computer.
- Sometimes I think technology makes us too dependent. People spend too much time on screens instead of interacting in person.

3. Is there any technology you want to buy?

- Yes, I really want to buy a smartwatch. It would help me track my fitness and manage my schedule easily.
- Not really. I already have all the gadgets I need, and new ones seem unnecessary to me.

4. What technology do you dislike?

- I don't like virtual reality headsets. They make me dizzy and feel disconnected from reality.
- Some people love them, but I find social media apps a bit toxic because they waste time and cause unnecessary stress.

5. How has technology changed since you were younger?

- Technology has improved a lot. When I was younger, phones were simple and slow, but now they're powerful and multifunctional.
- However, I think technology also makes people lazier because everything is automated, and we rely too much on gadgets.

PART 2

Describe a foreign country you would like to visit in the future

You should say:

- What country it is
 - What you know about it
 - Who you would like to go with
- And explain why you would like to visit it

Vocabulary:

- destination (n) – place you plan to travel to
- culture (n) – customs and traditions of a group
- attraction (n) – place people visit for interest
- cuisine (n) – style of cooking
- scenery (n) – natural surroundings
- architecture (n) – design of buildings

- historical site (n) – place with cultural importance
- landscape (n) – natural view or landform
- explore (v) – to travel and discover
- unique (adj) – one of a kind

- experience (v) – to live through or feel something
- admire (v) – to respect or appreciate
- vibrant (adj) – full of energy and life
- memorable (adj) – worth remembering

Sample Answer:

One foreign country I would love to visit is Japan. I've always been fascinated by its unique mix of ancient traditions and modern technology. I first learned about Japan through movies and travel vlogs, and since then, I've wanted to experience it myself.

If I have the chance, I'd like to go with my best friend because we both love Japanese culture, especially the food and art. We'd visit Tokyo for its lively city life, Kyoto for the temples and shrines, and maybe Hokkaido for its beautiful natural scenery.

What attracts me most about Japan is the balance between tradition and innovation. For example, people still wear traditional kimonos while living in cities filled with robots and skyscrapers. I also admire how clean and well-organized everything seems. Visiting Japan would not only be fun but also an eye-opening cultural experience that I'll never forget.

1. How does travelling abroad affect young people?

Travelling abroad broadens young people's horizons because they experience new cultures, foods, and lifestyles. For instance, studying or volunteering in another country helps them become more independent and adaptable. On the other hand, some might feel homesick or face culture shock at first, but overall, it's a valuable learning experience.

2. Do you think reading is a good way to learn about other countries?

Yes, reading is an excellent way to learn about foreign cultures because books and articles can give detailed information that you might not see as a tourist. For example, reading about Japan's history helps you understand its traditions before visiting. However, books can't replace real experiences—you truly understand a culture when you interact with locals.

3. What makes countries different from each other?

Countries differ in many ways, such as language, traditions, geography, and values. For instance, Vietnam has a warm, community-based culture, while some Western countries focus more on individual freedom. These differences make the world more diverse and interesting, even though they sometimes lead to misunderstandings between cultures.
